TO ALL EMPLOYEES:

On the occasion of the Tenth Anniversary of the Central Intelligence Agency, I want to express my appreciation to each employee - new and old alike - for the important service you have rendered to the effective development of our Agency.

In the ten short years since our establishment, we have, I believe, developed an intelligence system of which we can rightfully be proud. Our success is due to your dedication and application to the task at hand.

With continued emphasis on the development of our most important asset - our people - and of sound intelligence programs, I look forward to even greater progress in meeting the challenge of the next decade.

Dear Mr. President:

The basic legislation establishing the Central Intelligence Agency is contained in the National Security Act of 1947, which took effect on 18 September 1947. Therefore, the Agency will be ten years old this September.

It is our desire to commemorate our tenth anniversary by formal ceremonies on Wednesday, 18 September at (time) . Because of the great support of CIA which you have always expressed, we would consider it a distinct honor if you would participate in these ceremonies. In particular, it would be greatly appreciated if you would lay the cornerstone of the new CIA headquarters building at Langley, Virginia, on that date, and address the several hundred members of the Agency who will have completed ten years service and will be present at the ceremonies. Your participation would be a wonderful tribute to the work of those employees who are making their career in the field of intelligence.

It is our sincere desire that you will be able to be with us on this occasion.
